It Was Lieut. Perry H. Aldrich of Essex Junction Who Was Killed.

Burlington, Nov. 29 .- With two men in the aero service by the name of Percy Aldrich, Mrs. Leonard Aldrich of Essex Junction, when notified of her son's death, felt that perhaps it was the other Aldrich, as she had heard recently from her son, but a letter received since her notification by the war department dispelled any hope that her son was still iving. The letter came from Edward C. Landon, aero pilot of the 135th aero squadron in France, the same squadron with which her son was connected, and told the particulars of the accident which caused his death.

It was during a fight with German airplanes that six enemy machines attacked Aldrich and Landon, who had been given a reconnaissance of the whole corps front at a very low altitude, and closed in on them. Aldrich was shot through the abdomen, but both machines managed to reach their own lines. Aldrich was taken to a hospital and never regained consciousness. Copenhagen, Thursday, Nov. 28 .- Vienna newspapers publish a letter from Count Czernin, former Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, explaining an al leged American peace offer in December, 1917. In this particular case, he says, a manufacturer made overtures, but was unable to prove that he was accredited by the American or any other govern-

Unite in Thrashing Grain.

The farm bureau in Columbia county, Conn., discovered through its agricultur al survey last March that the spring planting of small grains would be greater than usual, but it was found also that the town of Columbia owned no thrashing machine. At a meeting of farmers called by the county agent a committee was appointed to induce, if possible, a man to buy a thrashing machine and do the work. A man was found. He bought a new machine and declared himself ready to begin. The farmers agreed to let him thrash all their grain at seven cents a bushel, the farmers furnishing power. The machine followed an itinerary mapped out by the farmers' committee, instead of visitmg farms at random, as has been the custom in that state. Grain was thrashed much more quickly and at a cost much less than heretofore. This plan is thought to be a good example of efficient co-operation.
